

Fueling Family Leadership with Ignite!

What is Ignite!?

Ignite! is a self-paced online learning experience designed to introduce parenting adults and school-based staff to foundational concepts and strategies for family leadership. The 3-hour virtual course provides practical tools and reflective learning activities that help participants gain confidence to explore their leadership potential at their own pace.

Ignite! is a great starting point for:

- Parenting adults and caregivers who are beginning to explore leadership opportunities within their school or community
- School staff who want quick, actionable strategies to support and partner with emerging family leaders
- Community members interested in understanding the fundamentals of family leadership in a way that fits their schedule

Program Goals

Ignite! participants will:

- Engage with foundational strategies that support family leadership and family voice
- Reflect on real-world examples and practical lessons that they can apply in schools, communities, and local decision-making spaces
- Build confidence to use their voice and step into leadership opportunities

This work is embedded in family leadership and is an essential part of NCFL's Family Learning System. You can learn more about family leadership programming and our vision for thriving communities at FamiliesLearning.org/What-We-Do/Family-Learning.
